GOV. BECKHAM

Urges Passage of School Book Bill.

In Special Message He Asks Legislature to Redeem Its Pledges to the People.

"It is a Question of Substantial Relief to Every Poor Child in the State and Means the Priceless Privilege of Education to Many."

Commonwealth of Kentucky, Executive Mansion, Frankfort, February 26, 1902.

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives:

The authority for this special communication to you may be found in Section 79 of the Constitution of Kentucky, which reads: "He (the Governor) shall from time to time give the General Assembly information of the state of the Commonwealth, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he may deem expedient." With the high regard that I have for your sense of duty and devotion to the public service, it is not my desire or intention to treat peations may not be disappointed, and that this measure receive your immediate and favorable consideration. Your generous constituencies are confidently relying upon such a redemption of the pledge so explicitly made by party platforms and upon the stump. They are entitled to it, and I believe that all such promises should be fulfilled to the letter.

In my regular message to you at the beginning of this session, I said upon this subject: "The question of a uniform system of text books has been much agitated for several years and I hope you will take some action on the subject. The prices of school books in the State are notoriously high, and it would be a great benefit to the people to pass a law that would result in cheapening them without at the same time making any sacrifice in quality or in the text. I believe such a law should be passed."

I say now, there is no question but that such a law can be passed, one that will give to every parent in the state the opportunity of buying school books for his children at greatly reduced prices without at the same time making any sacrifice in the quality or in the text, and I am ready and anxious to aid you, by executive approval, in placing such a law upon the statute book. It is just, it is wise and the arguments for it can not be successfully answered. The poor man with half a dozen children to educate can not afford to employ a powerful lobby to advocate his cause in this matter, but in your hands, I am sure that his interests will be watched, and that the plea of those who seek to exact from him exorbitant prices for all the books he buys, shall not prevail.

It is a question of substantial relief to every poor child in the state. It means the priceless privilege of education to many whose now denied that privilege by poverty, by their inability to pay the present extortionate rates charged for school books.

Such an opportunity (and it can not come again for two years) to send a ray of light to a darkened home, to lift the veil of ignorance from the faces of many hopeless children, to give to the whole people a measure of undeniable relief, and to show them that a platform promise is not an idle delusion, such an opportunity, I say, is in your hands, and no cavil or delay, should cause you to lose it. Is this law an experiment? No. Look to the states where it has been tried, and see whether or not they are dissatisfied. Such a law was passed in Tennessee four years ago. Inquire of the people there if they wish to give it up and if it has not been most satisfactory in its results.

The Governor of that state in his last message to the General Assembly, after the law had been in operation nearly three years, strongly commended it, and said: "The last Legislature passed an act for a uniform system of text books to be used in our public schools. It authorized the appointment of a sub-committee to examine text books for adoption, and a commission to compare the books offered, the prices proposed, and adopt the books to be used for five years."

"After many weeks of work the adoptions have been made. It is safe to say that Tennessee never had a better system of text books nor books so cheap."

"A careful computation shows that the saving in first cost, under this law is 33 1/3 per cent, or one third. In other words, half as much as the books cost now is saved in the first purchase. But this is not the total saving. Here-before it was possible to change the books every year. As a matter of fact many of them were often changed, entailing loss every time. Again, there was a want of uniformity in text books. The books used in one school or county were not good in another, and great expense followed these many changes. About half a million students attended our public schools last year. It is not unreasonable to assume that a dollar and fifty cents at the old prices was spent annually per pupil for books and copy books; so the saving to the people would be about a quarter of a million of dollars. This law is working splendidly. Since it has got fully under way and is understood, it is eminently satisfactory.

"I urge you not to allow it to be repealed or impaired. The people who tax themselves so liberally for schools, should not have to pay excessive tribute to the book publisher. Your predecessors boldly inaugurated this reform, and I urge you to patriotically sustain it."

The same arguments and the same fight were made against the passage of the law in Tennessee as are now made against its passage in Kentucky. The same predictions as to its impracticability were made then as are made now. Are they entitled to any credit in the light of such a vindication of the law?

But now let us look at it from another standpoint. I do not believe in that kind of parsimony that would tamper with the jurisdiction of the state for the mere purpose of political advantage, or that would sacrifice the interests of the whole people for the benefit of any faction of them. That political party is the best whose principles are founded upon justice and progress, and that party is the most progressive which is the most faithful in the redemption of its pledges. That member of a party is the most praiseworthy who earnestly and honestly endeavors to carry out his party's promises.

Governments by party organization is an accepted fact in national and state affairs, and when a party is entrusted with power the highest test of its virtue is the sincerity of its purpose and the fidelity with which it fulfills its obligations. Democratic and Republican government can not endure unless its agents faithfully voice and execute the principles of those who placed them in power. The Democratic state convention upon whose platform we are now exercising the functions of government said upon this question of a text book law: "We endorse the provisions of the bill to insure competition in the sale of school books for the use of the children of the state, the purpose of which bill was to destroy the extortionate and oppressive prices now maintained by the school book trust in this state, and we pledge the Democracy to such revision or amendment as time or necessity may show is beneficial to the school children of this state."

That is the question now before you for your determination. The Treasury Department.

OFFICE OF THE COMPTROLLER OF THE TREASURY, Washington, D. C., February 17, 1902.

WHEREAS, By satisfactory evidence presented to the undersigned it has been made to appear that THE TRADERS NATIONAL BANK OF MT. STERLING, in the city of Mt. Sterling, in the county of Montgomery and State of Kentucky, has complied with all the provisions of the Statute of the United States, required to be complied with before an association shall be authorized to commence the business of banking.

Now, therefore, I, William B. Rindgeley, Comptroller of the Currency, do hereby certify that "THE TRADERS NATIONAL BANK OF MT. STERLING, in the city of Mt. Sterling, in the county of Montgomery and State of Kentucky, is authorized to commence the business of banking, as provided in Section 5166 of the Revised Statutes of the United States."

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, witness my hand and seal of office this seventeenth day of February, 1902.

(Signed): WILLIAM B. RINGELEY, Comptroller of the Currency.

[Seal]. No. 6129. 32-

responsibility is one of which the people of the State have not lost sight. The time for action is short, and the obligation upon you for promptitude and dispatch is proportionately great. The basic principles of the bill are uniformity in text books and the fixing of maximum prices, and no plausible but destructive amendments should be allowed, as their purpose is to delay the passage of the bill or to destroy its benefits if passed. It is a measure which my lamented predecessor, Governor Goebel, in his devotion to the interests of the great common people, longed to see enacted into law. It is one for which he fought while he lived and it is one for which his friends, faithful to the great principles for which he died, are willing to fight now.

I am aware that it is your purpose to do that which is best for the State, and I address you now simply to direct your attention to the importance of this matter. I have written to you as a body plainly and frankly, just as I would talk to you as individuals and am united with the same purpose as you are, to give the people of Kentucky a law which is just and good and which they have a right to expect from us.

Very respectfully,
J. C. W. BECKHAM,
Governor of Kentucky.

AN IMPORTANT LETTER

From J. T. Highland, of Somerset Christian Church.

Editors of The Advocate:

I was so glad to see you give so much of your space last week to the protracted meeting and the many converts, but regretted that fifty three had not taken membership in any church. Let all Christians urge them to be a member of the church. Now converts, don't delay in taking membership; do as the majority have done, go into the church. Let everybody know that you are for Christ and His church. If you are anxious to find excuses for not promptly connecting yourself with the church, you can do so. No church is perfect, you are not perfect. The church in the Apostles' day was not perfect. Nevertheless the church represents God's people, and you cannot afford to stand aloof from it. You are not living up to your promise or duty if you do. Christ does not and cannot approve of you in such an attitude. You have had a good meeting; many have promised to start in the Divine Life. People born unto the church are often not cared for, not trained in church duties. Without training few will grow to true spiritual manhood and womanhood. New converts meet with difficulties, and if they are left alone without church influence there is great danger of their wandering back into the World. Each Christian nearby should be a committee of one to look after these new members, warm them and help them to grow strong in the Lord.

The church must instruct new members in their duty and help one another in the Christian life. To make converts and never instruct them how to engage in the service of God, is wrong. You can help these new converts by visiting them and encouraging them in the worship of God. A Christian in helping another always helps himself. Another danger with new members is that there are many old members who have these names enrolled on the church books who forget they have been purged from their old sins. The danger is that these new members have these faulty members for their example. Then a fault in some churches is that older members do all the work and new members find nothing to do. It is difficult for a person to maintain interest and zeal in a work while sitting and seeing others do all the work. Call young members into service early. Say to your members: "Come to church every Sunday." There is very little danger of a man or woman going wrong who attends church every Sunday. Do not take a back seat—go to the front. Be punctual, get there in time for the first hymn, take part in every song, get all that is good out of every song, prayer and sermon. Don't go to church expecting someone to arouse you; go expecting to arouse someone else. Then you will benefit others, and be benefited yourself. Don't criticize, don't find fault with your church. Think of your own poverty and wants. Then going into church will be a blessing.

KIDNAPING OF CHILDREN.

Not So Frequent as They are Commonly Supposed.

It is a common belief that children are frequently kidnapped, and that the parents are often unable to find them. However, this is not the case. In fact, children are rarely kidnapped, and when they are, they are usually found within a short time. The reason for this is that most kidnappers are looking for a quick profit, and they do not want to spend a long time searching for a child. Therefore, they usually take the child to a nearby location, where they can be found by the parents or the authorities.

The Lathrop case has been a long and complicated one. It has involved many people and a great deal of money. The case has been the subject of much speculation and controversy. Help... Nature will generally correct this difficulty.

If you will put from one-fourth to half a teaspoonful in baby's bottle three or four times a day you will soon see a marked improvement. For larger children, from half to a teaspoonful, according to age, dissolved in their milk, if you so desire, will very soon show its great nourishing power. If the mother's milk does not nourish the baby, she needs the emulsion. It will show an effect at once both upon mother and child.

DEATHS.

Mead.—Died on Tuesday Feb. 25 of Malaria contracted in Texas, Mr. H. C. Mead aged 45 years.

Mr. Mead had for a short time been a resident of this city and was traveling man for the Wampole Co., of Philadelphia for twenty years. He came from Paducah to this place and was a native of Illinois. His remains were buried at Owingsville Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Mead, formerly Miss Lena Crouch, was not able to attend the funeral being prostrated with the same disease. He was attended by his friend, Dr. B. Cornelison of Owingsville and Mr. B. W. Cornelison, of Salisbury, N. C. responded in person to a telegram notifying him of the death of Mr. Mead. It was really refreshing to behold these ties of friendship, for it was as if by chance they had met and become friends. Mr. Mead had been sick since Feb. 2nd. He was an Odd Fellow and a member of the T. P. A. order. He had no church relations. Morally he was a good man and a most excellent citizen and at the time of his death was enjoying a salary of $2,500 per year.

Kink.—John P. King died Friday of paralysis aged 86 years. He leaves eight children—Mrs. William Dean and Mrs. William Moore, R. M. King, Miss Florence King, of Clark county, Mrs. Bettie Dee Spates, of Middleboro, 2 daughters—Mrs. Joe Canady, Mrs. Robert Fleming, of Henry county, Mrs. Owen Morris, of this county. He was at one time a Magistrate of Wades Mill precinct Clark county, was a farmer and manufacturer of the old time hand made chair. His farm consisted of 66 acres in Clark county near Wades Mill. He lived on the same farm for 60 years, raised thirteen children all of whom made good citizens, and from his trade and the production of his farm he educated this large family. He was one of our very best citizens, a member of the Grassy Lick Methodist Church for many years. Four children preceded him—Mrs. R. A. Soelke, Mrs. Bessie Canady, Benjamin King and Mrs. Garrett Sullivan, all of Clark. His wife was Miss Oden, of Clark county and died 12 years ago. His funeral was preached by his pastor, Rev. George Froh and his remains were buried in Winchester cemetery.

HAIRLINE.—Saturday afternoon, March 1, 1902, at 4:30 o'clock, at the home in this city, Mrs. Laura, wife of J. R. Hairline, died of consumption. She is a native of this county and was 22 years of age. Her maiden name was Laura W. H. She was married 7 years ago. To them two children have been born. Only the youngest, now about two and one-half years old, is living. Her mother and brother live in this city and her sister, Mrs. Ray Moss, in the county. Mrs. Hairline was a member of the Methodist church. The funeral service was conducted

Monday morning at that church by Revs. D. W. Robertson and W. J. Bell. The family broken here is being re-united in that home where is no sickness, death or separation. In this life there is a mingling of sweet and bitter, joy and sorrow; yet all this may well be endured if at life's close heaven is won.

Kink.—Death is always active and to his keen blade the young, the middle-aged and the old must yield. The innocent babe with the glow of health is touched and the little heart stops its beating. By care and a specially kind providence middle age is reached, but sure the death angel comes. The subject of this notice, Mrs. S. S. Kirk, who died at Shelbyville February 18, had just passed the halfway line of three score and ten. She was a daughter of the late W. P. Schooler, of this city, born in Bourbon county. She was married to Mr. S. S. Kirk twenty years ago and leaves the devoted, true husband and two daughters—Allie V. and Cathaline. At the age of eight years she began the christian life, grew in the beautiful graces, departing this life at the age of forty years, having rounded a most beautiful life. C. C. Schooler, of this city, editor W. P. Schooler and wife, of Morehead, attended the burial service. We shall ever remember Mrs. Kirk for her worth. Faith in body, strong in faith, an heir to grace, she has taken on the incorruptible. May the sorrow-stricken husband, the dear daughters emulate the example of the mother, who, freed from disease and pain, is with him she loved.
